Debt Market

The IIP (Industrial Production) for the month of October came at 10.8%, higher than the market expectation. The growth was primarily led by Capital and Consumer goods. On a cumulative basis, IIP is in double digits at 10.3% from April to October 2010. On a sectoral basis, the growth has been led by manufacturing (up by 11.3%), electricity (up by 8.8%) and mining (up by 6.5%).

On the inflation front, the headline inflation in November declined to 7.48%, in line with market expectation. The decline was mainly due to the base effect. RBI expects inflation to decline to 5.5% by March 2011. However, the upside risk to inflation due to increasing oil prices (which has risen to $90 per barrel) and rising food and commodity prices remains a concern.

The Reserve Bank of India in its mid quarter Monetary Policy review left the Repo (6.25%), Reverse repo (5.25%) and CRR (6%) rates unchanged. The SLR (statutory liquidity ratio) was reduced from 25% to 24%. RBI has announced an Open Market Operation of INR 48,000 crores to ease the tight liquidity condition in the market. RBI has projected a growth rate of 8.5% for 2010-11. It has also projected an inflation target of 5.5% by March 2011, with an upward bias.

As per RBI data, the credit growth is at 23.7% and deposit growth at 14.7% (y-o-y). The Forex reserves are at $295 billion. Tight liquidity conditions continue to exert pressure at the shorter end of the yield curve. Liquidity has been negative by more than INR 100,000 crores (higher than RBI's comfort level), largely due to Equity IPO's, regular Central government borrowing and high Cash Reserve Ratio. Market participants are expecting further liquidity enhancing measures from RBI.

Equity Markets

The Equity markets rebounded in December with Indian markets following global trends. Stock markets rebounded globally during the month. Positive macro trends such as GDP data, Housing data and Retail sales in US were in line with expectations.

Indian markets witnessed low investor participation for the month. FII inflow in December was 10% of the previous month. The calendar year 2010 FII inflow was at $29 billion compared to $ 17 billion in 2009.

The two sectors which outperformed broader Equity Indices in December were Metals and Information technology (IT). Metal stocks rebounded strongly, broadly tracking global commodity prices which touched new highs. The key reason was strong demand from the developed world as well as Asia.

IT stocks continued to outperform, despite rich valuations, primarily on account of strong macro-economic data from the US. The perception of better management quality for top IT companies has increased investor preference for these stocks. The IT budgets for 2011 are expected to be announced in January 2011. This would be a key determinant for next year's performance. However, higher taxes for Indian IT companies and rise in H1B visa fees are mild negatives for this sector.

The Banking sector underperformed during the month. There was a liquidity crisis in the market. All major banks have increased their deposit rates. The increased cost of funds would put Net Interest Margins (NIM) under pressure in the coming quarter.

Oil and Gas stocks had a range bound performance in the month. Increase in global crude oil prices was partly offset by the companies, with a hike in petrol prices. However, diesel prices, which are still regulated by the Government, have not been increased. This was primarily due to heightened concerns about inflation.

Debt Market Outlook

The strong IIP numbers (from April till date) and RBI statement in the mid quarter policy review regarding upward bias in inflation, may lead RBI to hike rates in the January 25th policy. However, RBI will also factor in the prevailing liquidity situation in the market.

We expect increasing food prices, expected fuel price hike and high commodity prices to insert pressure on inflation, going ahead. Global recovery continues to be a matter of concern.

On the liquidity front, RBI has already taken measures like OMO (buy back of securities), SLR reduction by 1% and two Liquidity adjustment facilities (till January end). Going ahead, we expect further measures like auction cancellations, a possible CRR cut and more OMO buyback.

Currently the 10 year government bond is trading at around 8%. The market is awaiting the new 10 year benchmark. We expect an upward bias in interest rates, going forward.

Equity Markets Outlook

The year 2010 witnessed out performance mainly from Banking, Automobile and Information Technology sectors. The sectors that were laggards were Construction, Power, Capital Goods and Commodities. The Infrastructure sector is expected to see a strong push in the next quarter led by Government spending. There are expectations of a number of NHAI road projects to be awarded.

We continue to be positive on domestic consumption themes of Financial services, Automobiles and Infrastructure. On the international front, Crude Oil prices breaching $90/barrel is a point of concern both for Government fiscal deficit as well as Inflation. The third quarter results for FY2011 would determine the course of market and provide justification to valuations. By and large, we expect good quarterly results as GDP growth has been buoyant. Both consumer demand and credit growth have been strong. We maintain our long term positive bias on equities, going forward.
